Topics: Kleen Energy Systems Power Plant Natural Gas Explosion, CT
Best Management Practices for Chemical Protective Clothing

Speakers:

Glenn Narrow, CSP & Jimmy Rogers, CSP

Mr. Narrow was involved throughout the construction process of the plant from the insurance side. Mr. Rogers was the Safety Director for the construction of the plant. Both also were very involved with the investigation of the deadly natural gas explosion that eventually resulted in OSHA citing three construction companies and 14 site contractors for 370 alleged workplace safety violations, and proposed $16.6 million in penalties.

Michael Ziskin, CHMM, CHCM

Mr. Ziskin is a founder and Executive Vice President of Field Safety Corporation, a leading provider of environmental health and occupational safety consulting services, located in North Branford, CT and founded in 1983. He is a Certified Hazardous Materials Manager and Certified Hazard Control Manager. For almost 20 years, he has been involved in various safety standard development organizations -- he was previously the Chairman of the AIHA Protective Clothing and Equipment committee, and currently a member of the NFPA Technical Committee on Hazardous Materials Protective Clothing and Equipment. Mr. Ziskin has been widely published on topics related to PPE, and is an instructor on various safety-related topics for the OSHA Training Institute.
